TO CAPTAIN JAMES GRAHAM.

Barque "Harkaway,"
Wellington Harbour,
August 13, 1858.

DEAR SIR,—We, the Undersigned first Cabin Passengers in the "Harkaway," beg leave to offer to you, for ourselves and those on board connected with us, the expression of our cordial sense of the unceasing attention which you have paid to our comfort, and of the unvarying courtesy shown to us in all the ways in your power,—a courtesy and attention which were equalled only by the skill and caution which you have manifested in the navigation of this ship.

Those of us who have now finished our voyage in bidding you farewell, beg to assure you of our best wishes and prayers for your future happiness and prosperity, and those of us who are to be connected with you for a short time longer, are persuaded that our future intercourse will only exalt the sentiments of gratitude and esteem in which we all now sign our names to this document.

Believe us ever,

Dear Sir,

Your faithful and obliged Friends,
